Children are dying for lack of knowledge

Health workers and citizens in low-income countries do not have access to relevant, reliable healthcare knowledge:

- 8 in 10 caregivers in developing countries do not know the two key symptoms of childhood pneumonia *
- 7 in 10 children with malaria treated at home are mismanaged*
- 4 in 10 mothers in India believed that they should withhold fluids if their baby develops diarrhoea*

Meeting the information needs of health workers and citizens is vital to reduce child mortality and morbidity.

CHIFA's vision

A world where every child, every parent and every health worker has access to the health information they need to protect their own health and the health of children for whom they are responsible.

*See www.hifa.org for details

“5.9 million children under the age of 5 died in 2015. More than half of these early child deaths are due to conditions that could be prevented or treated with access to simple, affordable interventions”

*World Health Organization,
January, 2016*

What is CHIFA?

CHIFA is a global campaign, professional network and discussion forum which links academic centres with grassroots health workers. The forum is facilitated by a unique process called Reader-Focused Moderation. This ensures maximum value for all members. CHIFA has more than 40 Country Representatives further supporting and promoting CHIFA in their countries.

CHIFA addresses the information and learning needs of those responsible for the care of children in developing countries, including mothers, fathers and family caregivers as well as health workers. Its remit includes children's rights to health and healthcare, and the social determinants of health.

“I have benefited immensely from many of the items sent to me.”

“CHIFA is a great forum for reaching health professionals rapidly [...] It is easy to interject and point health workers to correct information, e.g. on quality of care, obesity, child development. I still keep using CHIFA, and its stimulating discussions.”

Dr. Elizabeth Mason, Former Director of WHO's Department of Maternal, Newborn, Child and Adolescent Health

How do I join?

CHIFA is free and open to anyone with an interest in child health.
